

October 2018

More than one person has observed that adversity brings out the best in us and frequently produces a sense of community that was unanticipated. Plenty has occurred in recent weeks to put this observation to the test. The United Methodist Church continues to intercede for our neighbors experiencing natural disasters, as we navigate troubled waters as a denomination.

As people of faith, we are confident that our prayers make a difference. Prayer brings our will into alignment with God's purposes. Prayer opens our eyes that we might see that which might otherwise be overlooked. Prayer summons resources we did not know existed. Prayer initiates the transformation of circumstances that seemed hopeless. Prayer is not our last option. Prayer is our preeminent priority. So, our prayers must abound. Whatever else is going on in our lives, we will not forget the needs of those who have encountered adversity in recent weeks.

Within the last month, our thoughts turned first to interceding for those impacted by the flooding here in Wisconsin and its devastation. While continuing to respond to that disaster, Hurricane Florence blasted the Carolinas and neighboring states. United Methodist churches have responded with incredible generosity, sending financial contributions to the United Methodist Committee on Relief ("UMCOR") and other disaster relief agencies, assembling flood buckets and sending Early Response Teams into stricken communities. Long after others have moved on to fresh crises, Christ-followers will continue to make a difference in communities that will take years to return to a new normal. No one could respond to the enormous needs presented alone, but working together a difference is being made.

Our vision is limited, so we must be reminded of countless other natural disasters that are being experienced in parts of the world, that are not featured in our daily news. The impact of these disasters is not lessened simply because they are miles from where we live.

Even as we are mindful of the significant needs around us, our prayers are also with the leadership of the UMC as they seek to navigate a way forward for our denomination. Join me in praying for the delegates to General Conference – that the Holy Spirit will direct their actions, that the authority of Scripture and the Lordship of Jesus Christ will be affirmed, and that their decisions will create a way forward that honors the deeply held beliefs and conscience of all the people of the church, allowing us to bless one another and go forward in peace and good will. We are confident that God is at work in this even as God has been at work in the difficulties we have faced because of recent natural disasters.

In the midst of all of this, the people of The United Methodist Church are confident in the future because we know who holds the future securely in His grasp – the Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, I ask you to do three things:

First, I urge you to take time in this season to join me in fervent prayer to the One who is able, through His mighty power at work within us, to accomplish infinitely more than we might ask or think. (Ephesians 3:20).

Second, I invite you to join me for the simulcast of the Wesleyan Covenant Association's global gathering in Marietta, Georgia. Hundreds of United Methodists will gather at Bethel United Methodist Church to worship together and hear some amazing Wesleyan theologians and pastors. The event will be simulcast to dozens of locations across the country. One location is right here in Wisconsin, at Asbury UMC in Madison. I will be attending and would like to take a van load of folks with me. Check out the [wesleyan covenant.org](http://wesleyan covenant.org) website for registration information and let me know if you want to share a ride.

Lastly, I urge you to join me in praying for the members of our Ministry Study Task Force. It has been a year now that they started their work. They were prayed over and commissioned in worship on Sunday September 17, 2017. They continue their work of gathering information and data to look at the future of our churches. The question they are striving to answer is "how is God calling us to make a difference in our community?" The members of the task force are: Russ and Barb Shannon, Dave Turk, Jerry and Donna Bower, Paul McManaway, Victor Vlasak, John Storer, Dave Foley, Bert Kelsey, Pam Peterson-Kintz, and Gretchen Kanable. Rev. Scott Carlson, our district superintendent, is leading our efforts as Rev. Don Greer has taken a pastoral position in Cedarburg, WI. I expect that they will be giving an update of where they are in the process in the coming month. God bless you and yours this month and always.

Your brother in Christ,
Rev. G. Wiley Gladney
